Cherokee Uniforms Offers Ten $2,000-Scholarships for Nursing Students
Application Deadline is April 30th

LOS ANGELES (Dec. 7, 2015) – Cherokee Uniforms invites the nation’s nursing students to apply for the A Nurse I Am Scholarship, featuring ten $2,000 awards. The deadline is April 30, 2016.

Application requirements include watching the inspirational nurses’ film “A Nurse I Am” – viewable free of charge on the scholarship website – and writing an essay on a required subject. Entry requirements, tips and the application form also are on the website.

Applicants must be enrolled in an accredited LVN/LPN, RN degree (ADN or BSN), diploma, or RN-to-BSN program, and must have begun classes no later than Jan. 31, 2016. The scholarship is not open to graduate students.

Since 2007, Cherokee Uniforms has awarded scholarships totaling $156,000 to students enrolled in nursing school. Cherokee funded the inspirational nurses’ film “A Nurse I Am”, which features nationally award-winning nurses and is shown annually to more than 41,000 students in more than 400 nursing-education programs across the United States.
